Book Reviews

As a School Counselor, I often use literature to illustrate good character traits and making good decisions. I shared Flip Flap Floodle with a 1st grade class. We had been talking about asking trusted adults for help when needed. This book fit right in with our study. After reading, the students created thank you cards to give an adult who had helped them. One of the children said that the author should get one for helping them with her book. I agree.

“This little duck possesses a belief in himself that will inspire young children. Adults and children alike will find themselves singing “flip-flap-floodle” in moments of doubt.
